The Ocean Isle Museum Foundation, Inc. supports its two facilities, the Museum of Coastal Carolina on Ocean Isle Beach and Ingram Planetarium at Sunset Beach, as 501(c) 3 non-profit organizations. The Museum and Planetarium operating expenses are funded mainly through admission fees, private donations, and community contributions. Only a small percentage of the budget is provided by public funds.

The Museum of Coastal Carolina at Ocean Isle Beach is a natural history museum with a mission to stimulate the public's interest and understanding of the natural science, environment, and cultural history of the coastal region of the Carolinas. The museum offers educational programs for school groups, an outstanding monthly lecture series, and field trips on the island in fall, spring and summer.

The Museum also boasts a Native-American collection of pottery, projectile points, dugout canoes, and reproductions of ancient tools. Other galleries include Changing Tides, Waterways, and Barrier Islands. The Sea Shore has a touch-tank containing live sea animals that live along the coast, marsh and tide pools.

The Ingram Planetarium is an 85-seat domed theater and science exhibit hall with a mission to provide a broader understanding of our Earth, solar system, and universe. The theater programs provide learning experiences for school groups and the general public about astronomy, energy, navigation, and space exploration. The Paul Dennis Science Hall exhibits and displays feature math and science activities to engage children and adults. Sky event programs, telescope viewing, an astronomy club, and holiday programs round out the Planetarium's activities.

For educational and entertaining gifts and toys, visit the Nature's Treasure Gift Shop at the Museum or Galaxy Gifts in the Planetarium.
